NOTICE OF APPARENT LIABILITY FOR FORFEITURE

Adopted: December 23, 2011*Released: December 23, 2011

By the Chief, Enforcement Bureau:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. In this Notice of Apparent Liability for Forfeiture (“NAL”), we propose a forfeiture in the amount of thirty-nine thousand dollars ($39,000) against North Central Wireless LC d/b/a i wireless (“North Central”).<sup>1</sup> As detailed herein, we find that North Central apparently willfully and repeatedly violated section 20.19(d)(3)(ii) of the Commission’s rules (“Rules”).<sup>2</sup> We further find that the apparent misconduct continued for seven consecutive months during the 2010 reporting period. Specifically, North Central apparently failed to offer to consumers the required number or percentage of hearing aid-compatible digital wireless handset models as set forth in the Rules. These hearing aid compatibility requirements serve to ensure that consumers with hearing loss have access to advanced telecommunications services.

II. BACKGROUND

2. In the 2003 Hearing Aid Compatibility Order, the Commission adopted several measures to enhance the ability of consumers with hearing loss to access digital wireless telecommunications.<sup>3</sup> The Commission established technical standards that digital wireless handsets must meet to be considered

<sup>1</sup> North Central is a Global System for Mobile Communications-based (“GSM-based”) Tier III carrier serving Iowa. Tier III carriers are non-nationwide wireless radio service providers with 500,000 or fewer subscribers as of the end of 2001. See Revision of the Commission’s Rules to Ensure Compatibility with Enhanced 911 Emergency Calling Systems, Phase II Compliance Deadlines for Non-Nationwide CMRS Carriers, Order to Stay, 17 FCC Rcd 14841, 14847-48 ¶¶ 22-23 (2002).

<sup>3</sup> Section 68.4(a) of the Commission’s Rules Governing Hearing Aid-Compatible Telephones, Report and Order, 18 FCC Rcd 16753 (2003); Erratum, 18 FCC Rcd 18047 (2003) (“Hearing Aid Compatibility Order”); Order on Reconsideration and Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, 20 FCC Rcd 11221 (2005). The Commission adopted these requirements for digital wireless telephones under the authority of the Hearing Aid Compatibility Act of 1988, codified at section 710(b)(2)(B) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (the “Act”), 47 U.S.C. § 610(b)(2)(B).

compatible with hearing aids operating in acoustic coupling and inductive coupling (telecoil) modes.<sup>4</sup> Specifically, the Commission adopted a standard for radio frequency interference (the “M3” rating) to enable acoustic coupling between digital wireless phones and hearing aids operating in acoustic coupling mode, and a separate standard (the “T3” rating) to enable inductive coupling with hearing aids operating in telecoil mode.<sup>5</sup>

3. In the 2008 Hearing Aid Compatibility First Report and Order, the Commission established several deadlines between 2008 and 2011 by which manufacturers and service providers must offer specified numbers or percentages of digital wireless handset models that are rated as hearing aid-compatible.<sup>6</sup> The number or percentage of digital wireless handset models required to be offered to consumers by each deadline depends on the applicable compatibility standard (“M” rating or “T” rating), and the deployment schedule is tailored to the size of the service provider as measured by its number of

<sup>4</sup> See Hearing Aid Compatibility Order, 18 FCC Rcd at 16777 ¶ 56; 47 C.F.R. § 20.19(b)(1), (2). The Hearing Aid Compatibility Order described the acoustic coupling and the inductive coupling (telecoil) modes as follows:

In acoustic coupling mode, the microphone picks up surrounding sounds, desired and undesired, and converts them into electric signals. The electrical signals are amplified as needed and then converted back into sound by the hearing aid speaker. In telecoil mode, with the microphone turned off, the telecoil picks up the audio signal-based magnetic field generated by the voice coil of a dynamic speaker in hearing aid-compatible telephones, audio loop systems, or powered neck loops. The hearing aid converts the magnetic field into electrical signals, amplifies them as needed, and converts them back into sound via the speaker. Using a telecoil avoids the feedback that often results from putting a hearing aid up against a telephone earpiece, can help prevent exposure to over amplification, and eliminates background noise, providing improved access to the telephone.

Hearing Aid Compatibility Order, 18 FCC Rcd at 16763 ¶ 22.

<sup>5</sup> As subsequently amended, section 20.19(b)(1) provides that, for the period beginning January 1, 2010, a wireless handset is deemed hearing aid-compatible for radio frequency interference if, at a minimum, it meets the M3 rating associated with the technical standard set forth in the standard document “American National Standard Methods of Measurement of Compatibility between Wireless Communication Devices and Hearing Aids,” ANSI C63.19-2007 (June 8, 2007) (“ANSI C63.19-2007”), except that grants of certification issued before January 1, 2010 under earlier versions of ANSI C63.19 remain valid for hearing aid compatibility purposes. 47 C.F.R. § 20.19(b)(1). Section 20.19(b)(2) provides that, for the period beginning January 1, 2010, a wireless handset is deemed hearing aid-compatible for inductive coupling if, at minimum, it meets the T3 rating associated with the technical standard set forth in ANSI C63.19-2007, except that grants of certification issued before January 1, 2010 under earlier versions of ANSI C63.19 remain valid for hearing aid compatibility purposes. 47 C.F.R. § 20.19(b)(2).

<sup>6</sup> These requirements apply to each air interface over which service providers offer service. See Amendment of the Commission’s Rules Governing Hearing Aid-Compatible Mobile Handsets, First Report and Order, 23 FCC Rcd 3406, 3419 ¶¶ 35-36 (2008) (“Hearing Aid Compatibility First Report and Order”), Order on Reconsideration and Erratum, 23 FCC Rcd 7249 (2008) (stating that the hearing aid-compatible handset requirements apply on a per air interface basis). However, the handset deployment benchmarks do not apply to service providers and manufacturers that meet the de minimis exception. Id. at 3413 ¶ 20. See also 47 C.F.R. § 20.19(e). The de minimis exception provides that manufacturers or mobile service providers that offer two or fewer digital wireless handset models per air interface are exempt from the hearing aid compatibility requirements, and manufacturers or service providers that offer three digital wireless handset models per air interface must offer at least one compliant model. 47 C.F.R. § 20.19(e). Effective September 10, 2012, the de minimis exception will not be available to manufacturers or mobile service providers that do not meet the definition of a “small entity” beginning two years after their initial offerings. 47 C.F.R. § 20.19(e)(1)(ii); see also Amendment of the Commission’s Rules Governing Hearing Aid-Compatible Mobile Handsets, Policy Statement and Second Report and Order and Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, 25 FCC Rcd 11167, 11180-89 ¶¶ 35-59 (2010).

subscribers. Specifically, between May 15, 2009 and May 14, 2010, non-Tier I service providers were required to ensure that at least nine handset models per digital air interface,<sup>7</sup> or at least 50% of the models offered per digital air interface, met or exceeded the M3 rating,<sup>8</sup> and that at least five handset models per digital air interface, or at least one-third of the models offered per digital air interface, met or exceeded the T3 rating.<sup>9</sup> Beginning May 15, 2010, non-Tier I service providers were required to offer to consumers at least ten handset models per digital air interface, or at least 50% of the models offered per digital air interface, that met or exceeded the M3 rating.<sup>10</sup> Similarly, between May 15, 2010 and May 14, 2011, non-Tier I service providers were required to offer at least seven handset models per digital air interface, or at least one-third of the models offered per digital air interface, that met or exceeded the T3 rating.<sup>11</sup>

4. On January 18, 2011, North Central submitted a Hearing Aid Compatibility Status Report covering January 1, 2010 to December 31, 2010.<sup>12</sup> North Central identified each handset model it offered to consumers in its retail stores and on its website, www.iwireless.com, and specified the model's FCC Identification ("FCC ID") as well as the hearing aid compatibility rating, if any. After a careful review of North Central's submission, the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau referred this matter to the Enforcement Bureau ("Bureau") for investigation. As part of its investigation, the Bureau consulted the FCC Office of Engineering and Technology ("OET") Equipment Authorization System to independently confirm the hearing aid compatibility rating of each handset model as established in the grant of equipment authorization issued by the Commission for that handset.<sup>13</sup> Taking into account the manufacturer-reported information in the OET database, we conclude that North Central apparently failed to offer, for seven consecutive months during the 2010 calendar year, the required number or percentage of handset models that met or exceeded the T3 rating.<sup>14</sup>

III. DISCUSSION

A. Failure to Comply with Hearing Aid-Compatible Handset Deployment Requirements

5. We find that North Central apparently failed to offer to consumers the required number or percentage of hearing aid-compatible handset models that met or exceeded the T3 rating. As noted above,

<sup>7</sup> The term "air interface" refers to the technical protocol that ensures compatibility between mobile radio service equipment, such as handsets, and the service provider's base stations. Currently, the leading air interfaces include Code Division Multiple Access ("CDMA"), Global System for Mobile Communications ("GSM"), Integrated Digital Enhanced Network ("iDEN"), and Wideband Code Division Multiple Access ("WCDMA") a/k/a Universal Mobile Telecommunications System ("UMTS").

<sup>13</sup> The FCC Office of Engineering and Technology Equipment Authorization System is an electronic database of all equipment certified under FCC authority. The database identifies the hearing aid compatibility rating of each device by FCC ID, as reported by the handset manufacturer in test reports submitted to the Commission at the time of an equipment authorization or of any modifications to such authorizations. See <http://transition.fcc.gov/oet/ea/fccid/>.

the Commission has imposed varying benchmarks for the deployment of hearing aid-compatible handsets. During the periods July through September and November through December 2010, North Central was required to offer at least six handset models with a minimum T3 rating per digital air interface, and during June and October 2010, it was required to offer at least seven—significantly fewer than the 16 to 19 handset models it made available to non-hearing aid users.<sup>15</sup> As set forth in greater detail in the Appendix, North Central apparently failed to meet this standard, repeatedly falling short by one to two handset models.<sup>16</sup> Accordingly, we find that North Central apparently willfully<sup>17</sup> and repeatedly<sup>18</sup> violated section 20.19(d)(3)(ii) of the Rules by failing to offer to consumers the required number or percentage of digital wireless handset models that met or exceeded the T3 rating. We further find that this apparent misconduct continued for seven consecutive months during the 2010 reporting period.

B. Proposed Forfeiture

6. Under section 503(b)(1)(B) of the Act, any person who is determined by the Commission to have willfully or repeatedly failed to comply with any provision of the Act or any rule, regulation, or order issued by the Commission shall be liable to the United States for a forfeiture penalty.<sup>19</sup> To impose such a forfeiture penalty, the Commission must issue a notice of apparent liability for forfeiture and the person against whom such notice has been issued must have an opportunity to show, in writing, why no such forfeiture penalty should be imposed.<sup>20</sup> The Commission will then issue a forfeiture if it finds by a preponderance of the evidence that the person has violated the Act or a Commission rule.<sup>21</sup> We conclude <sup>15</sup> See 47 C.F.R. § 20.19(d)(3)(ii) (requiring non-Tier I digital wireless service providers to ensure that between May 15, 2010 and May 14, 2011, either at least one-third of the handset models they offered, or at least seven handset models, met or exceeded the T3 rating for inductive coupling). We note that while non-hearing aid-compatible handsets are technically available to all consumers, these handsets may not function effectively with hearing aids and can create excessive feedback and “noise.” See Hearing Aid Compatibility Order, 18 FCC Rcd at 16756 ¶ 6 (“[D]igital wireless phones can cause interference to hearing aids and cochlear implants because of electromagnetic energy emitted by the phone’s antenna, backlight, or other components. This interference can be significant enough to prevent individuals with hearing aids or cochlear implants from using digital wireless phones and services. In addition, most wireless phones do not internally provide the capability to inductively couple with hearing aids containing telecoils, as wireline phones do.”).

<sup>16</sup> See Appendix, North Central Wireless LC d/b/a i wireless Hearing Aid-Compatible Handset Model Offerings (T3 or higher rating) (indicating that between June 1, 2010 and December 31, 2010, North Central offered between 16 and 19 handset models, only four to six of which had a minimum T3 rating).

<sup>17</sup> Section 312(f)(1) of the Act defines “willful” as “the conscious and deliberate commission or omission of [any] act, irrespective of any intent to violate” the law. 47 U.S.C. § 312(f)(1). The legislative history of section 312 clarifies that this definition of willful applies to both sections 312 and 503 of the Act, H.R. Conf. Rep. No. 97-765 (1982), and the Commission has so interpreted the term in the section 503(b) context. See Southern California Broadcasting Co., Memorandum Opinion and Order, 6 FCC Rcd 4387, 4388 ¶ 5 (1991), recon. denied, 7 FCC Rcd 3454 (1992) (“Southern California”); see also Telrite Corporation, Notice of Apparent Liability for Forfeiture, 23 FCC Rcd 7231, 7237 ¶ 12 (2008); San Jose Navigation, Inc., Forfeiture Order, 22 FCC Rcd 1040, 1042 ¶ 9 (2007), consent decree ordered, Order and Consent Decree, 25 FCC Rcd 1494 (2010).

<sup>18</sup> Section 312(f)(2) of the Act, which also applies to forfeitures assessed pursuant to section 503(b) of the Act, provides that “[t]he term ‘repeated’ ... means the commission or omission of such act more than once or, if such commission or omission is continuous, for more than one day.” 47 U.S.C. § 312(f)(2). See Callais Cablevision, Inc., Notice of Apparent Liability for Monetary Forfeiture, 16 FCC Rcd 1359, 1362 ¶ 9 (2001), forfeiture ordered, Forfeiture Order, 17 FCC Rcd 22626 (2002); Southern California, 6 FCC Rcd at 4388 ¶ 5.

under this standard that North Central is apparently liable for a forfeiture for its apparent willful and repeated violations of section 20.19(d)(3)(ii) of the Rules.

7. Section 503(b)(2)(B) of the Act authorizes a forfeiture assessment against a common carrier up to $150,000 for each violation, or for each day of a continuing violation, up to a maximum of $1,500,000 for a single act or failure to act.<sup>22</sup> In exercising such authority, we are required to take into account “the nature, circumstances, extent, and gravity of the violation and, with respect to the violator, the degree of culpability, any history of prior offenses, ability to pay, and such other matters as justice may require.”<sup>23</sup>

8. The Commission’s Forfeiture Policy Statement and section 1.80 of the Rules do not establish a base forfeiture amount for violations of the hearing aid-compatible handset requirements set forth in section 20.19 of the Rules.<sup>24</sup> The fact that the Forfeiture Policy Statement does not specify a base amount in no way suggests that a forfeiture should not be imposed. The Forfeiture Policy Statement states that “any omission of a specific rule violation from the ... [forfeiture guidelines] ... should not signal that the Commission considers any unlisted violation as nonexistent or unimportant.”<sup>25</sup> The Commission retains the discretion, moreover, to depart from the Forfeiture Policy Statement and issue forfeitures on a case-by-case basis, under its general forfeiture authority contained in section 503 of the Act.<sup>26</sup>

9. In determining the appropriate forfeiture amount for violation of the hearing aid-compatible handset deployment requirements, we take into account that these requirements serve to ensure that consumers with hearing loss have access to advanced telecommunications services. In adopting the hearing aid compatibility rules, the Commission underscored the strong and immediate need for such access, stressing that individuals with hearing loss should not be denied the public safety and convenience benefits of digital wireless telephony.<sup>27</sup> Moreover, as the Commission has noted, the demand for hearing aid-compatible handsets is likely to increase with the public’s growing reliance on wireless technology and with the increasing median age of our population.<sup>28</sup>

The Commission has amended section 1.80(b)(2) of the Rules, 47 C.F.R. § 1.80(b)(2), three times to increase the maximum forfeiture amounts, in accordance with the inflation adjustment requirements contained in the Federal Civil Penalties Inflation Adjustment Act of 1990, 28 U.S.C. § 2461 note, as amended by the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, 31 U.S.C. § 3701 note. The most recent inflation adjustment took effect September 2, 2008 and applies to violations that occur after that date. See Amendment of Section 1.80(b) of the Commission’s Rules, Adjustment of Forfeiture Maxima to Reflect Inflation, Order, 23 FCC Rcd 9845, 9847 (2008) (adjusting the maximum statutory amounts for common carriers from $130,000/$1,325,000 to $150,000/$1,500,000); 73 Fed. <sup>28</sup> Id. at 16756 ¶ 5 (noting that approximately one in ten Americans, or 28 million Americans, have some level of hearing loss, that the proportion increases with age, and that the number of those affected will likely grow as the median age increases). See also Section 68.4(a) of the Commission’s Rules Governing Hearing Aid-Compatible (continued....)

10. We have previously determined that violations of the hearing aid-compatible handset deployment requirements are serious in nature because failure to make compatible handsets available to consumers actually prevents hearing aid users from accessing digital wireless communications.<sup>29</sup> Accordingly, we generally apply a base forfeiture amount of $15,000 to reflect the gravity of these violations.<sup>30</sup> We have applied the $15,000 base forfeiture on a per handset model basis (i.e., for each handset model below the minimum number of hearing aid-compatible models required by the Rules).<sup>31</sup>

11. For purposes of calculating the base forfeiture amount for the T3-related violations, we focus on North Central's apparent failure to offer to consumers the requisite number or percentage of handset models with a minimum T3 rating in December 2010, when North Central missed the benchmark by two handset models.<sup>32</sup> Accordingly, and consistent with section 503(b)(6) of the Act, we start with a base forfeiture of $30,000 (two T3-rated handset models x $15,000) for North Central's apparent failure to offer to consumers the required number or percentage of T3-rated handset models in willful and repeated violation of section 20.19(d)(3)(ii) of the Rules.

12. This base forfeiture amount, however, is subject to adjustment. Given the totality of the circumstances, and consistent with the Forfeiture Policy Statement, we conclude that an upward adjustment of the $30,000 total base forfeiture amount is warranted. In this regard, we take into account that North Central was out of compliance with the hearing aid-compatible handset deployment requirements for more than half of the 12-month reporting period—failing to offer to consumers the requisite number or percentage of handset models with a minimum T3 rating for seven consecutive months.<sup>33</sup> Therefore, based on all the factors and evidence, including the duration of the violation and the

While section 503(b)(6) of the Act bars the Commission from proposing a forfeiture for violations that occurred more than a year prior to the issuance of an NAL, we may consider the fact that North Central's misconduct occurred over an extended period to place "the violations in context, thus establishing the licensee's degree of culpability and the continuing nature of the violations."
